In Memory of Eric Bates

The estate of Mrs Elizabeth Bates of Barnoldswick, Lancashire, was left to Keswick Mountain Rescue Team in memory of her son, Eric.

The sum of £50,000 was used to buy a new Land Rover ambulance, shown on the cover of this report, and a network of personal radio receivers used to 'call out' team members to an incident.

Eric Bates died from natural causes whilst on holiday in the Alps. He spent much of his leisure time on the mountains around Keswick.

August 1991

Team Leaders Report

1991 has been a year of change in the Team. The retirement of our Chairman, Ken Brannan, our Secretary John Wood, and our Team Doctor, Mike Turnbull, after many years of matchless work, has left us with a void, which will be difficult to fill. Also Jo and Harold Watkins standing down from the laborious and time consuming job of looking after our many collecting boxes, will be hard to follow. But I'm sure the new officers filling these vital roles will follow the example set by our departing friends.

The large bequest, left in the will of Mrs Elizabeth Bates has enabled us to purchase our radio receivers, which, supplied to all Team members, have dramatically reduced the response time of the Team. It has enabled us to replace our older Land Rovers and to convert them both to carry stretchers.

With a very comprehensive training and first aid programme weekly, throughout the year, I feel the Team is more than keeping up its very high standard.

We have had 62 call-outs this year—a record. Unfortunately 11 of these were fatalities, but thankfully the vast majority of these calls were for fairly minor incidents, and most have their lighter moments. For example, the time we were bringing a casualty down Mousethwaite Coombe and a freak gust of wind lifted the whole stretcher party off its feet and deposited them 10 to 20 yards down the fellside, fortunately leaving the stretcher and casualty where they were! I suppose you could say this was a lighter moment!

Finally the Team was saddened to hear this week of the death of Eric Arnison. His wise counselling on any of the Team's legal matters and his support and interest in the Team almost from its start in 1947, will be sadly missed.

Mike Nixon, Team Leader, March 1992,

Statistics

1991 was the Team's busiest year to date, with 62 call-outs, discounting the large number of false alarms. Of these 62 incidents, 11 involved fatalities.

To repeat to some extent the sentiments expressed in earlier Reports, it seems inevitable that, as the number of visitors to the mountains increases, then so will the number of accidents. The statistics bear this out.

By far the most common incident attended by the Team is a simple slip... resulting in either a broken, or sprained ankle. Last year saw a decrease in the number of climbing accidents, albeit that those that did occur tended to be of a serious nature. Paragliding and mountain bike accidents increased—a trend that appears likely to continue. The wintery conditions of early '91 also resulted in an increase in the number of ice climbing accidents.

The vast majority of incidents attended by the Team arise through no fault of the unfortunate casualty. Most of those rescued express embarrassment which, although understandable, is generally misplaced.

However, it is as well to remember that in 1991, the mountains of the Lake District claimed 27 lives; they therefore demand the attention, and respect, of all those who venture onto them.

Mike Fanning

Search Dogs

Search Dogs have played a part in the Team's rescue operations for some years. There are currently five Search Dog and Handler combinations in the Team; the Dogs range in age and experience, and are of differing breeds—one German Shepherd, one Labrador, and three Border Collies.

Each Dog works in a similar way, quartering the ground, searching for a human air scent, which it then tracks to its source before returning to its handler, indicating a 'find' by barking. The Dog will then lead the handler to the casualty.

The training of a Search Dog is a long, complex and time-consuming task. SARDA, English Lake District sets high standards which each Dog must attain before being accepted as a 'Graded Dog', ready to go onto the Call-Out List.

Once graded, the Dog and Handler continue to train throughout the Dog's working life of up to 7 or 11 years.

The Keswick Dogs, as well as being used for night and bad weather searches in the local area, are also on call for the rest of the Lake District and the UK.
